

Brian Johnson
Managing Director

Brian Johnson is the managing director at Loews Coronado Bay Resort, overseeing the general operations of the 439-room resort, as well as its five dining outlets, the 15,000-square-foot Sea Spa, and premier 65,000 square foot conference facility.

Johnson brings more than 39 years of hospitality-industry experience to his role as managing director having most recently served as managing director of Loews Ventana Canyon Resort, a 398-room property nestled in Arizona's Catalina Foothills.

Johnson started with Loews Hotels & Resorts as general manager for the Loews Portofino Bay Hotel in Orlando, Florida. Prior to Loews he worked with Sheraton Hotels & Resorts, where he began his career in hospitality at the Sheraton Harbor Island East (now the Sheraton San Diego Hotel and Marina) property.

Johnson received his Bachelor of Arts in Hotel Management from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. Seven years later, he received a Master's in Marketing from National University. Throughout the last decade, Johnson has served on the board for a number of industry organizations including two years as chairman of the Arizona Lodging and Tourism Association and two years as a board member for the American Hotel & Lodging Association.

Johnson has received numerous awards and accolades for his work in the hospitality industry, as well as in the community. His recognitions include 2006 Hotelier of the Year by the Arizona Hotel & Lodging Association and 2008 General Manager of the Year by Loews Hotels.
